

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO CENTER FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING

Confronting Imposter Phenomenon

with Dr. Kevin Cokley

Dr. Kevin Cokley

*University Diversity and Social Transformation
Professor of Psychology, University of Michigan*

Dr. Cokley is an award-winning psychologist and professor whose research dismantles the myth of intellectual indifference and inferiority among Black and minoritized students.

His current research focuses on imposter phenomenon and its relationship to mental health and academic outcomes among minoritized students.

Event Contact

email: teaching@uchicago.edu

website: teaching.uchicago.edu

A Discussion for Undergraduates

Join Dr. Kevin Cokley and fellow students for a discussion about his experiences and research on imposter phenomenon and learn about ideas that you can use to navigate and challenge this difficulty.

Date: Friday, April 26

Time: 2:30PM - 3:30PM

Location: Ida Noyes Library

Register

bit.ly/undergradreg24

